Burmese Water Festival
Albany - Rensselaer, New York 2019

06/11/2019

It's that time of year again . We will be celebrating our 15 years anniversary of the traditional Burmese Water festival also known as Thingyan. The Burmese Community would like to invite you to come and celebrate this joyous day. We continue to spread our joy to everyone in the community. Thingyan in Myanmar (Burma) usually falls in the month of April but unfortunately the weather in New York is not hot enough for us to celebrate so instead we do it in July. We celebrate this day by splashing water on each other. We do this because it gives us a fresh new beginning in our lives.

This year we decided to celebrate our New Year differently than the previous years, since it is our 15 years anniversary we have included many different types of cultural dances. There will also be a session of people singing for entertainment . We are continuing to serve free food & beverages. Anyone is welcome to come and enjoy our wonderful Burmese water festival.
